June Weddings.

'Twas a very "pretty wedding," celebrated at the home of the fair "bride's parents," underneath a "lovely floral dome;" There were "lavish decorations" in the "sumptuous drawing room." And, although you'd scarce suspect it, There was also one bridegroom.

"Bessie Bell was maid of honor," Saunders played the best man part, "Low, soft strains of music" sounded, signaling the wedding's start; "Little Lizzie scattered flowers" on the floor and everywhere—Incidentally we'll mention that a scared bridegroom was there.

Ab, "the bride looked fresh and blooming as a newly opened rose," And "the bridesmaid, Fannie Morris," was a wonder, as to clothes; "White silk gauze, with point lace trimmings," decked the blushing bride, so fair—Sneaking round the building some place was a bridegroom, with a scare.

"Sitting round the bridal table," were the misses this and that, And a lot of Messrs, also, helped along the table chat; "Many gifts of priceless value" drew, of printed space their share, And although you'd scarce believe it, one scared bridegroom, too, was there.

Whether Kaw City, the new Oklahoma town which is being widely "boomed," is an immense success or not, the name which it has chosen for itself certainly sounds like a winner—Kansas City Star.

The first chautauqua assembly of Indian territory will be held at Sulphur, August 2 to 16, and from the present prospects there will be a large gathering to witness the launching of the new enterprise. The location, which will be preserved by the national government as a park, is an ideal one for such a purpose, and is noted for its beauty in a country where beautiful locations abound. An excellent program has been arranged, with General Fitzhugh Lee as the star attraction, and all of the educational

His Last Hope Realized.

(From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.)

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping up on his claim, he encountered much bad weather, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure, and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by the Eagle drug store.
